

---

State of the State - PolitickerNJ/Rob Tornoe

Posted by redgar - 2008/01/10 14:30

---

This thread discusses the Content article: State of the State - PolitickerNJ/Rob Tornoe

In todays internet age, I'm not sure what fair use is considered anymore. I'm linking to an image on someone else's site, yet it may appear that this is "NJLP" content. The artist drew this cartoon specifically for PolitickerNJ and may have gotten paid for it.

Should I not do this? Am I stealing from Rob Tornoe and PolitickerNJ?

I'll send a message to Rob Tornoe asking his opinion.

UPDATE: I've shrank the image so the text is not readable and you need to go to the source to really appreciate.

UPDATE2: I've gotten permission for Rob and his editor to post the cartoon the way I have posted it.

=====

Re:State of the State - PolitickerNJ/Rob Tornoe

Posted by Kevin Ferrizzi - 2008/01/23 22:54

---

Seems to me Corzine's speech was pretty much a duplicate of last year. I also noticed that the Legislature only applauded Crozine's BAD ideas (from my viewpoint anyway). Did anyway see the honorable Congressman from North Jersey, Mr. Pallone, dead asleep during the speech? Gotta love it

=====

Re:State of the State - PolitickerNJ/Rob Tornoe

Posted by Libertarian Joseph - 2008/01/24 08:16

---

lol. What do you expect? Corzine is an elitist bastard, with no real ideological spine. He's a tool of the special interests. It was funny when his fat ass got in that car accident. Anyway, I'm glad NJ got rid of the death penalty.

=====