
Ron Paul and the GOP

I read where RP is going to recruit libertarian candadates to run for office as republicans. This means that candadates that would have run on the lp ticket will now run as gopers. I also read that he said the candadate that came closet to his views was chuck baldwin, the constitution party candadate. I wonder what game he is playing? I think all of this publicity has gone to his head and made him feel like a king. I am really starting to doubt what he is really about. No one is what they seem to be, he could be a bigger phoney than all the rest.
