Web site looks great. Kudos to Jay & everyone who helped create it. And for what it's worth: I have no problem with the Ron Paul stuff.

Excellent! Thanks for making the effort to improve upon the NJLP's ability to communicate with others. I look forward to seeing what comes of this endeavor. A great deal of praise should go to all who work on behalf of liberty!

This is a large improvement from what the website looked like before. I would write off continual work on the site but this is certainly a first step in the right direction.

Thank you for your comments. The effectiveness and usefulness of the site depends upon the readers themselves. I want to avoid our site being static and not getting updated with new content.

See something in the news that interests you? Have ideas for furthering freedom? Consider clicking "Submit News" and writing something. Don't worry too much about the format, we can always fix that. Your input won't show up until approved by an administrator.

I am so happy to see this new format. Thank you , Jay , and anyone who helped you. I am not the most computer savvy person, and I'm a little intimidated, but I'll get over it. This is just what we needed!
