'85 CONVENTION PREVIEW

by Bill George

Ed Clark, 1980 Libertarian Presidential nominee, will headline the list of speakers at the 14th annual NJLP state convention.

This year's convention will be held March 23rd at American Legion Fugle Hummer Post #65 at Lake Ave. (Route 27) and Holly St., Metuchen.

The full package--breakfast, lunch, dinner and six speakers--will be $30 if ordered before March 6th or $35 if ordered before March 13th.

Clark, who also managed the 1984 campaign of LP nominee Dave Bergland, is in the unique position of having been at the center of the last two Presidential races, and he is expected to provide some interesting insights on both campaigns, as well as suggestions for 1988.

Ed will be speaking at 7:00 PM, and his talk will be accompanied by an international buffet featuring hot foods of seven different countries.

Andy Melechinsky, pro se attorney and founder of Constitutional Revival, will speak at 12:30 PM during the luncheon buffet featuring cold cuts and a "surprise" hot dish. Melechinsky is perhaps best known for his efforts to abolish the monopoly on legal services enjoyed by lawyers, and many of his fights have centered around state and local issues. With the Governor and Assembly elections this year, his ideas will be of particular interest.

The hot buffet at supper will cost $25, while the cold buffet at lunch will cost $12.50 if ordered before March 13th.

See CONVENTION...Pg. 2

Business sessions, free to members, will be conducted at 10 AM (election of party officers) and at 3:30 PM (nomination of candidates). The positions of NJLP Chairman, Vice-Chairman, Treasurer, and Secretary plus three at-large members will be up, as well as delegates to the national LP convention in Phoenix in August. Candidates for Governor and all 80 Assembly seats will be considered.

Other speakers will be the 1984 U.S. Senate candidate Harold Leien-decker (9 AM), N.J. Americans for Constitutional Taxation President Frank May (11 AM), N.J. Commerce and Industry President Jim Cowan (2 PM), and Bergen County Medical Society Executive Director George Willis (5 PM).

A cash bar beginning at 6:30 PM will feature $1 mixed drinks. Unlimited coffee will be provided throughout the day.

For further information call 201/249-7649 (Rick).

Jan. 14, 1985

Editor:

Paul Jacob, the fugitive non-registrant for over 15 months, was arrested at his home on December 6, 1984 by the F.B.I. Paul's legal costs are expected to exceed $20,000. He deserves both our moral and financial support now. Letters of support and contributions can be sent to: Paul Jacob Defense Fund, 4701 N. Hickory St., Apt. U, North Little Rock, Arkansas 72116.

I would also like to suggest that NJLP members write letters to the Phil Donahue Show (now broadcast live from N.Y.C.) urging the show to consider having Paul Jacob on to present his anti-draft, anti-registration views. Write to The Phil Donahue Show, c/o WNBC-TV, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, NY 10020, Attn: Darlene Hayes.

Sincerely,

Ken Miller

The NJLP State Committee met at John Schafer's home on January 12, 1985. Present were Schafer, George, Friedlander, Nelson, Deprey, Kerr, G. Flynn (for P. Fallon), Polumbo, Hoegberg. Maiullo, Zeldin, and Meinshausen were absent.

It was agreed that the NJ Libertarian would be sent to the newsletter editors or chairmen of contiguous state LP's, any other publications of interest that exchanged with us, and our NatCom regional representative. These mailings are "free" in that they are not required to become paid members or subscribers to the NJLP.

Rich Duprey gave the NJLP convention report. The date selected was March 23, 1985, location still to be arranged. Speakers will be Andrew Melechinsky, George Willis, Harold Leien-decker, Jim Cowan. Ed Clark, who will be the dinner speaker, was called during the meeting and agreed to come. More details about the convention can be found on the front page.

The deadline for filing of petitions for 1985 campaigns is April 25, 1985. We need candidates for Governor and State Assembly. Also needed are candidates for NJLP offices and delegates for the 1985 National LP convention in Phoenix. All of these positions will be filled at the NJLP state convention in March.

The next meeting will be a Steering Committee meeting at Len & Ginny Flynn's home in Morganville. See "Calendar of Events" for directions or call 201/591-1328.

Paterson News, 1/3/85

If you were given one New Year's wish for the country, would you take it, and if so, what would it be?

Yes. "My wish would be that Americans become enlightened as to what is being done to them, and put our society back on the path towards liberty at home and non-intervention abroad. In short, let's get ready in 1985 to throw collectivist rascals out!"

HEROES OF THE REVOLUTION

By Len Flynn

A continuing series dedicated to the unsung heroes of the Libertarian Revolution, people whose daily efforts swell the ranks of libertarians everywhere and assure the ultimate victory of our noble cause.

PART III--"BUNGLING BUREAUCRATS"

The founder of the Soviet police state V. I. Lenin writes in his State and Revolution that commerce should be organized "on the lines of the postal service." What a marvelous lesson for pampered and spoiled Americans, basking in luxury beyond that enjoyed by kings a century ago brought to them from the free market (or what is left over from it), to ponder Lenin's prescription while they try to reason with a cement-headed clerk at the Post Office or the Bureau of Motor Vehicles!

Friends of ours visited Russia recently and found the "workers' paradise" to be incredibly poor. Discussions with the hand picked KGB tourguides found them to be strong CRITICS of the Soviet economic system. Every Russian seems to know the Soviet economy is awful: inefficient, corrupt, and wasteful with endless multiple lines to purchase inferior, shoddy products.

Yet few Americans have seen this final result of Lenin's plan for themselves. The tremendous comparative wealth of the U.S.A. is taken for granted by people here and the connection of socialism with poverty is forgotten. Calls for government planning and "cooperation" of government and industry (correctly called fascism, see Charlotte Twight's book America's Emerging Fascist Economy) fill even the business sections of most newspapers and popular news magazines.

To the rescue come the bungling bureaucrats to enlighten and wake up even the most fat and contented Fabian as he steps into the fairyland of government services.

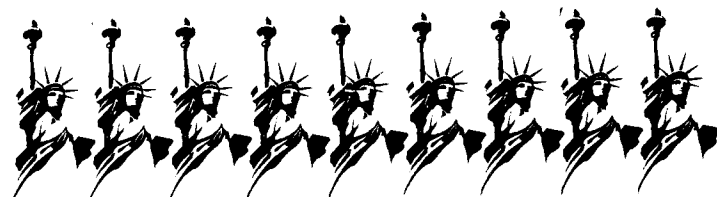

We hoped to rent a post office box one afternoon and found an insolent attendant who told us he needed a half hour to fill out the paperwork! So he couldn't even begin since it was 4:35 and he was going home at 5:00. Then there is the #%&$* Division of Motor Vehicles.

These bastards refused to issue a registration for a school bus because "it wasn't in the computer" despite obvious evidence that a transposition of license numbers had occurred. (The evidence consisted of previous registrations--and the bus itself with a correct license plate--but the minions of DMV were unmoved.) After FOUR WEEKS of phone calls, letters and ire they finally relented and issued the registration renewal.

Revenge of a sort arose when the school's other bus had to be inspected at the State Inspection Station. The bus failed because ONE bulb (of 9) of the front dome lights did not light, so the final inspector was (gleefully?) putting a "failed inspection" sticker on the bus, which meant the bus could not be used until another inspection could be made. But the driver tried the lights once again and now all the lights worked!

She shouted "They WORK!" and insisted that the bus now be passed. The sticker man was disgusted when he had to replace the "failed" with a "passed" label. But the private school's bus was back in service ... helping to keep a dozen youngsters out of the hands of -- next episode!
